Course description

Design for Learning (EDIT 5164)

This course is designed to introduce you to instructional design principles and techniques. The course will also provide you with an environment in which you can practice and apply those tools and principles. It is our goal that this experience will lead you to a more purposeful plan for creating instructional projects.