Course description

Program and Product Evaluation (EDIT 5584)

In the field of IDT, we evaluate instructional programs and products to determine their worth and to make decisions that will lead to better performance. In this course you will learn how to evaluate instructional programs and products. You will be asked to evaluate a program or project yourself using a variety of methods and techniques, including both quantitative and qualitative approaches.