

New course descriptions

Applied ID Theory (EDIT 5534)

At this point in the program, you will have gained knowledge and skills regarding instructional design. In this course you will get to apply your knowledge and skills as you will learn to develop a computer-based instructional program. Using a multimedia authoring program, you will create an instructional program that will incorporate a variety of digital images, videos, and audio files.