

Project and Report-Applied ID Project [3 credit hours]

"Project and Report" is offered in lieu of a thesis. The purpose of this component of the ITMA program is to allow each student to pursue independent self-study in each student's area of interest. This project is expected to represent substantial work. Consistent with University policy, students are expected to spend approximately 150 hours of effort for 3 hours of course credit. Registration for this course is restricted to ITMA students.

Course Objectives:

- Develop and submit a proposal for your project.
- Create a daily work log for your project, including the tasks you did toward completion of the project, the dates of these tasks, and the amount of time spent on each task.
- Submit your proposal and all supporting materials that accompany your project.
- Submit a reflection paper on what you learned during the creation of your project.
