

New course descriptions

Software Evaluation (EDIT 5774)

In this course you will learn techniques to evaluate how effective existing computer programs are for instructional purposes. One of the things you will get to do in the course is to create an expert review report about a specific instructional computer program.